Women Change America

In 1987, Congress declared March National Women's History Month. Since then, each March the contributions of women have been celebrated throughout schools and communities.

The driving force behind National Women's History Month is the National Women's History Project (NWHP) - a non profit educational organization. The NWHP has announced that the theme for National Women's History Month 2009 is, "Women taking the lead to save our planet".

On the NWHP's website, www.nwhp.org, you can find the biographies of this year's National Women's History Month Honorees. These women are being celebrated for the tremendous contributions they have made to their communities, and the changes their work has made in the world.
